Serving the Cal State San Bernardino Community

Volume XVII

Number 21

Dr. Berdan is named one of CSU's top profs

Faculty members at CSC, San Bernardino and San Jose State University have been named The California State University's 1983 Outstanding Professors.

The designees, announced by Board of Trustees' Chairman John F. O'Connell and Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds are, Dr. Alan C. Ling professor of chemistry at San Jose, and Dr. Frances F. Berdan, professor of anthropology at San Bernardino.

Sponsored by the Board of Trustees, the awards program has honored two faculty members each year since 1964. Designees are recommended to the Chancellor and Trustees by a special committee organized by the CSU Academic Senate.

Annually since the program's start, the California State University Foundation has awarded $1,000 to each Outstanding Professor. The awards have been made possible by a donation from the Joseph M. Schenck Foundation of Los Angeles arranged for by former Trustee Gregson Bautzer.

In addition, Chancellor Reynolds announced that, for the first time, nominees from all other campuses participating in the CSU Outstanding Professor Awards Program will receive $500 awards.

Recognition events for Professors Berdan and Ling, and for nominees from the 10 other campuses, will be held this spring. The announcement of the selection of Professors Ling and Berdan was made at a Board of Trustees meeting held in the Sacramento Community Convention Center.

Professor Frances Berdan has been a member of the California State College, San Bernardino faculty since 1973. Berdan is a cultural anthropologist and an internationally recognized expert on Aztec civilization.

"An amazingly progressive academic," in the words of one former student, and a "fantastic natural teacher," according to another, Berdan is esteemed for her depth of knowledge and classroom performance.

"When I first walked into Dr. Berdan's class, I was a confused sophomore oscillating between French and journalism for my choice as a major," commented still another of her students. "When I was finished, I had not only gained a better understanding of this fascinating subject matter but also was on the road towards a new career choice -- anthropology."

Berdan's articles and monographs have influenced Mesoamerican studies. An example of this is the new perceptions she has provided to the world of scholarship on the economics of Aztec civilization.

"Once every few decades a scholar

This was the scene late last quarter when CSCSB's handsome hunks gathered for the "Men at Cal State" Pageant.

comes along who redirects and stimulates an entire field," commented Dr. Arthur A. Demarest of Harvard's Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology. "It is extraordinary that Frances Berdan has managed to be such a scholar and at the same time has run a full-scale teaching program at an undergraduate-oriented institution."

Berdan's books have been garnered increasing attention. The Aztecs of Central Mexico: An Imperial Society, published by Holt, Rinehard and Winston, is in its second printing.

Pre-Columbian Studies Curator Elizabeth Boone of the Dumbarton Oaks Research Library and Collection, Washington, D.C., described this volume as "the best synthesis of Aztec culture available."

Enrollment up 6% over last year

This quarter, 253 more students registered for classes as of the second day of registration than the same time last spring. The count was 4,742 this year, compared with 4,489 last year, for a 6% increase. The FTE this quarter is 3,546.7, a 184.6 increase over the Spring, 1982 total. An official count for the quarter will be taken Friday, April 22, which is census date and the last day to drop classes.

Admin. School Changed

Drs. John S. Chaney, K. Michael Clarke, Rauf A. Khan, and Jack McDonnell will chair the departments of the School of Business and Public Administration when the reorganization and name change of the School of Administration becomes effective in September. All appointments are academic year positions.

Dr. Chaney, professor of administration, has been appointed to a three-year term as chair of the new Department of Management.

Dr. K. Michael Clarke, associate professor of administration, will continue as chair of the Department of Public Administration through the 1983-84 school year.

Dr. Khan, associate professor of administration, has a one-year appointment as chair of the new Department of Accounting.

Dr. McDonnell, professor of administration and chair of the present Department of Business Administration, will complete his term by chairing the new Department of Marketing and Management Science for two years.

The Department of Business Administration is being split into three departments to better serve growing enrollment, specializations developing within the business field and community projects, according to Dr. Hal Hoverland, school dean. The Department of Public Administration remains unchanged.

Holocaust Remembered

by Carol Leish

A significant part of Jewish tradition is the remembrance of events, both joyous and sad, throughout the long history of the Jewish people. Such an occasion is Yom Hashoah, or Holocaust Day.

Yom Hashoah is a relatively new day of remembrance on the Jewish calendar. It is the day on which Jew and Gentile alike reflect on the atrocities of the Holocaust. To help all of us remember what happened in Europe over forty years ago, the Inland Chapter of the Hillel Group and the CSCSB Shalom Club sponsored a lecture by Renee Firestone, a survivor of Auschwitz, and the film Genocide, which was named "Best Documentary Film" at last year's Academy Awards.

Mrs. Firestone's lecture was moving and inspirational. She had just finished giving a similar speech at the University of Redlands, and spoke to a sizable audience in the Recital Hall. The pain of reminiscing about the time she spent in the camps was quite noticeable as her lecture went on.

In 1944, when she was 19 years old, Mrs. Firestone and her family were taken from their home in Hungary to a labor camp as the Russians advanced through Eastern Europe. The Hungarian government had "tolerated" the Jews since the beginning of the war. However, as the tide of the war turned against the Axis, Jews were identified as "second-rate" citizens and began to lose their civil liberties.

After being in the labor camps, Mrs. Firestone said the people were forced into cattle cars. They were not allowed food, water, or sanitary facilities for the three-day journey from the camps to Auschwitz. As a result, many people did not survive the trip. Before they had boarded the trains in Hungary, they were told that they were going to work on farms and in factories. But upon arriving at Auschwitz, "We knew something was wrong."

The people were treated roughly and with contempt the moment they disembarked from the train. "I thought we were going to be locked into an insane asylum," remarked Mrs. Firestone. They were shaved, showered, sprayed with DDT, had a yellow stripe painted down their backs, and were dressed in rags.

The newcomers passed a building from which muffled screams and moans were emitted. Later they learned that that was the room where people were burned alive. Mrs. Firestone pointed across the compound to a chimney and asked an SS officer, "Is that where we'll work?"

The officer replied, "No. See those flames? That's where you'll meet your parents." The "Final Solution" was indeed a hideous and obscene crime against humanity.

How did Mrs. Firestone survive nearly 13 months in Auschwitz? "I thought about the piece of bread that would last me through the day. I thought about not being selected the next morning as one of the ones who went to the 'factory.' I thought about not getting sick, because no one ever returned from the infirmary."

The Film Genocide was part of a Yom Hashoah (Holocaust Day) remembrance last Wednesday, April 6. Renee Firestone, a survivor of Auschwitz, lectured on her experiences before the film.

Following the war, Mrs. Firestone made her way to the United States. "People asked me, 'Why don't you go home?' Well, when you lose your mother, father, and younger sister, there is no place you can call home."

Ironically, before the war Mrs. Firestone was not a religious Jew. "I became a Jew at Auschwitz. I believe that somewhere there is a God, and He was responsible for getting me out of there alive."

Genocide: powerful Holocaust film

by Richard McGee

Viewing the film Genocide is not a pleasant experience. Bold, graphic, and powerful, this film, produced by the Simon Wiesenthal Center, documents the horrors of Nazi Germany and their Final Solution.

When viewed after Mrs. Firestone's sobering lecture, the film takes on added importance, as it graphically shows the atrocities and suffering inflicted upon millions of innocent people.

It is not an easy film to watch. Many of the scenes leave the audience with a sense of shock. Narrated by

When asked if she thinks there could be another Holocaust, against the Jews or any other group of people, she replied, "It could happen again. Look around the world today. The only difference (for Jews) is that there is a state of Israel." She said that she will continue to devote her life to the betterment of man and to help others remember the suffering of Jews and Gentiles during the Holocaust.

Mrs. Firestone believes as Anne Frank did, that "in spite of all this, I believe people are good at heart." Mrs. Firestone has faith in the human race but cautions against tendencies to hurt others. "After living through the nightmare of Orson Welles and Elizabeth Taylor, Genocide is a series of images, slides, and old motion picture footage that traces Hitler's rise to power.

By including examples of songs and poetry, some even composed in concentration camps, this film makes the memories of those people come alive. We can feel their suffering and hear their screams of anguish.

For anyone who asks how it could have happened and for anyone who asks how we could have let it happen, the film Genocide offers us with an answer. However, it might not be the answer we would expect.

Auschwitz, I am sure that I could never be an aggressor."

Let's hope that the only way to remove aggression from the human spirit is not through Holocausts.

The killing of six million Jews during World War II is remembered each spring for historical, practical, and moral reasons. People proclaim that, "The world is not the same since Auschwitz." For mankind to recall the deaths of innocent people in World War II, they seek to build a new order envisioned by Isaiah in which "none shall be afraid."

The Holocaust is not an event to be remembered only by the Jewish people. Members of all religions and nationalities were unmercifully murdered during World War II. All people should never forget what happened, so that it can never happen again. Let's hope history never repeats itself.

Casino Night

The residents of Serrano Village have begun preparations for Casino Night on Saturday, April 23, from 8:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. Residents are working wholeheartedly to pull the evening together.

Thought the event is sponsored by Waterman house, residents from the entire Village have made investments in the project. Casino Night will feature a "Virgin" Bar, Mock Gambling, and Las Vegas-style entertainment. All members of the CSCSB community are encouraged to attend, as Casino Night has been planned with everyone in mind.

The Pawprint Policies

The Paw Print is published under the control of the CSCSB Publications Board. It is published on a weekly basis for a total of 28 issues less quarter breaks and final exam periods. Contact the office at 887-7497, 5500 State College Parkway, San Bernardino, CA 92407, for further information.

Letters to the Editor should be kept to a maximum of one and one-half typed pages. Letters which attack any person may be held until that person has had time to respond in the same issue as the other letter. Letters must include name and address, a phone number, and must be signed, although names will be withheld upon request. All material becomes property of The Paw Print.

The Paw Print reserves the right to edit all copies submitted in order to comply with space requirements and libel laws.

Advertising requests should be addressed or directed to the Business Manager at the address and number above.

Classified Ads may be ordered similarly except that such ads for students, faculty, and staff of CSCSB of reasonable length are free.

Ad and Copy Deadlines are the Thursday preceding the date of publication. Copy received after that date appears in the paper on a space available basis. The Paw Print reserves the right to refuse to print ads and copy submitted after the deadline.

Advertising Policy. The Paw Print accepts advertising in good faith but makes no warranty, and does not check any goods or services advertised for validity.

The Paw Print is funded by an annual allocation from the Associated Students to cover the costs of printing and expenses. It is distributed free to students and the community. The remainder of the funding is generated by The Paw Print itself.

Boone also said of Dr. Berdan's scholarship: "She is flashy in the sense that many of her published arguments and theories are brilliantly insightful, but she is at the same time solid and dependable; her work has been innovative, but it will stand up to critical review in a hundred years."

Since 1976 Berdan also has been the chair of Cal State San Bernardino's Anthropology Department. She has immersed herself in a wide variety of school and college assignments, including heading the College Center for General Education.

Her work with the San Bernardino community is illustrated by the establishment of a museum studies program, as an option within anthropology, predicated on the cooperation of local museums and groups.

Several years ago, Berdan's sponsorship of public lectures by a well-known Egyptologist resulted in overflow crowds -- "the largest number of people to come to hear a scholarly presentation in the history of the college," according to then-President John M. Pfau.

Berdan has been a visiting professor in Mexico and in 1981 consulted for the National Geographic Society in its publication of Gene Stuart's The Mighty Aztecs. She has served since 1981 as a board member of the Society for Economic Anthropology.

She earned her baccalaureate and master's degrees at Michigan State University. Her Ph.D. is from the University of Texas at Austin.

Professor Alan Ling has been a San Jose State faculty member since 1975, and associate dean for research since 1976. Ling is a nuclear chemist who in 1981-82 won the campus' own Outstanding Professor Award.

Ling is known for his informed, fast-moving classroom presentations, his expertise in radiation chemistry and biology, his more than 50 successful grant proposals exceeding $1.2 million, his work with high school chemistry students and teachers, and his training programs for nuclear power employees.

His research has included heat release studies for aircraft materials, water quality assurance techniques, electron spin resonance studies of organic free radicals, and liquid scintillation and Cerenkov spectrometry.

Work that Ling and his colleagues engaged in for the NASA Ames Research Center on flame control in aircraft fires led to a patent on new fire extinguishant materials and a NASA certificate of recognition for Ling.

Ling is known for the large numbers of students who request to work with him on research problems, at least 10 of whom have gone on to doctoral studies. Unusually large numbers of his students present papers at either regional or national professional meetings.

For hundreds of high school students, their first contact with SJSU is through Ling's lectures to their classes. Ling also brings students and their teachers to the university's Nuclear Science Facility where he supervises the students in performing experiments.

Twice yearly Ling conducts a radiochemistry class for Rancho Seco Nuclear Power Plant employees and has assisted the Santa Clara Valley Water District in its advanced wastewater treatment plant.

In eight years at SJSU, Ling has made more than 20m presentations of research findings to national and international professional society meetings, conducted more than 40 seminars at various universities, and made more than 100 appearances before community groups and organizations.

Cal State Health Fair

This year Cal State will again be offering a Health Fair featuring free health screening and health education. This event will be held on Sunday, April 24 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and will be located in the Student Services Building.

New this year will be a "Children's Health Fair" featuring education and demonstrations specifically for children ages 4 and above.

In order to make this a successful event, your participation as volunteers is greatly needed. Four or eight-hour shifts are available and students with both medical and non-medical backgrounds are needed. Volunteers are needed for a number of positions such as registration, tabulation, dispersement of literature at educational booths, child supervision, vision, anemia and blood pressure testing, height and weight measurement and many, many more! If interested please contact Susan

Workshop Rags or Riches

The Counseling and Testing Center is offering a two session workshop entitled, "Your Choices: Rags or Riches," on April 14 and 21 (Thursday) from 3-4:30 p.m. The group is aimed at helping you understand the motives behind your present choices. It will then present a systematic approach to increasing your alternatives facilitating better choices and enhancing your life satisfaction. To join us call 887-7437 or stop by and register at PS 227.

Richards at extension 7348 or leave your name and phone number at the Department of Health Science and Human Ecology. All volunteers will receive lunch and a certificate of appreciation for their time. Health Fair has become a nationally recognized, successful health promotion event.

Counseling and Testing Center Training Wkshp.

The Counseling and Testing Center, PS 227 is offering a three session Training Workshop from 4-6 p.m. beginning April 26th. Come and learn what assertiveness is, how you can get your needs met through its principles, and then practice these new behaviors within our group. Call 887-7437 to participate.

Hawaiian Senator to Visit Nursing Speaker

Senator Daniel Inouye of Hawaii, a strong supporter of efforts to reduce health care costs through more effective utilization of nurses, will speak at 9:00 a.m., Monday, April 18, in the Recital Hall at Cal State, San Bernardino.

His topic will be "Nursing and the National Political Arena." An informal meeting with the audience is planned for 8:30 a.m. on the Recital Hall patio.

Admission to the event is $10, with an additional $10 fee for nurses wishing to receive two units of continuing education credit.

Senator Inouye received an honorary recognition award from the American Nurses Association in 1982 for his contributions to health care and support of the nursing profession. He also was honored by the emergency department of the Nursing Association.

"His efforts to reduce health care costs through legislative action are widely known," according to Jane Darany, assistant professor of nursing at Cal State. "For example, he campaigned for the Department of Defense Champus program so that all nurse practitioners are now able to bill for services automatically."

Senator Inouye also was instrumental in making nurse-midwife care a mandated benefit under Medicaid, in getting nursing representation on the federal Professional Services Review Organization, which monitors Medicaid, and in doubling government funding of nursing research grants this year, Mrs. Darany said.

Recently he coauthored a bill which would enable nurses to provide care for which they are qualified in community nursing centers and to receive direct Medicaid reimbursement.

His lecture is the second in the annual Pfau Distinguished Lecture Series in Nursing, sponsored by the Department of Nursing at Cal State. Reservations should be made in advance by calling (714) 887-7346.

INTRAMURALS

BASKETBALL

"Gretzky's Puppies", bolstered by the addition of Jay Alverson, edged the defending champions, "Slapstick," it was the first loss in three years! With the win, "Puppy" player Robin Bullington became the 17th Ace in CSCSB Intramural history. Jerry's Kids", sparked by Martin Alvino's 18 points, held off the "Cheap Cigars" to win the Basketball title, 45-41, in one of the most exciting contests ever played on the Cal State hardwoods. The game, which went right down to the wire, was iced by Ed Kearby as he canned four straight free throws in the closing seconds.

V-ball

"Phoenix" completed a perfect season in volleyball by disposing of the 1982 Champions, "K-TEL Kennel Klub", 15-3, 15-11. The "Klub" made a contest of it in the second game, despite the absence of Barry O'Malley, but "Phoenix" was simply too talented. Outstanding performers for the winners were Joan Bougie, Loree Childers and Mark Sterling.

As expected, the "Playboys" defeated "Beyond Hoop" 54-49 to win the "A" Basketball title. However, the game was much closer than many experts thought it would be, largely due to the efforts of Jeff Fulton, who had 16 points. When the chips were down, and the game was on the line, the "Playboys" got tough. Justin Skelton took control of the boards and the victors made 8 of 9 free throw attempts down the stretch. Leading scorers were Mike Smith (19), and Kevin Merritt and Ron Skeleton, with 12 points apiece.

Greed Tops

"Greed," a B League basketball team, compiled a sportmanship G.P.A. of 3.75 last quarter, tops among the 31 teams which participated in intramurals. For their efforts, each "Greed" player received a blue baseball hat, with the Coyote logo and a number one, symbolic of being number one in sportmanship. Proud owners of new hats are: Jay Alverson, Chris Bruckner, Chris Cahoon, Ervin Caver, Mike Chatham, Wayne Dunham, Mike Haller, Tom Linnastruth, Alex Martin, Greg Nottingham, and Rene Yopez.

W. Q. Good Sports

With a rating of 3.82, Badger won the "Serrano Village Intermural Sportmanship Award" for Winter Quarter, 1983. The perpetual plaque, which is awarded to the dorm which has the best sportmanship "G.P.A." each quarter, is now on display in Badger. This is the third time that Badger has won the award. Other recipients include Tokay (2), Shandin (2), and Mojave (1). Intramural teams using their dorm name are automatically eligible for the award. Teams using other monikers, who wish to compete for the award, must inform the Intramural Director, as to their dorm identity.

Cal State Country Club

Blood Drive Success

The blood drive held on March 9 was a success! We had a total of 101 pints credited to the Cal State Blood Reserve Fund. A total of 121 people tried to donate, but 20 of them were unsuccessful donors. Of the 101 donors, 78 were students, 15 were staff, 6 were faculty, and 2 were visitors.

Mojave was the dorm that brought in the most donors. Their name will be engraved on the Blood Bank plaque. Also, Mojave was the winner of the ice cream social, courtesy of Village Council. Richard Spangler was the winner of the Intramural T-shirt.

Thanks to all of you for making this drive so successful. A special thanks to Inez Alvarado for being Dracular this year. Also, thanks to Rose Versage for obtaining free McDonald's coupons for the dorm donors.

Anyone who was unable to donate can still do so by going to the local Blood Bank located at 399 Blood Bank Road in San Bernardino. Make sure you tell them to credit your donation to the Cal State Blood Reserve Fund.

Parents' Weekend

April 22-24

Look at the weekend's itinerary posted on the house doors. If you have any questions, please contact Sherri in the Housing Office.

Living-Learning Series

The Living/Learning Series is underway once again this quarter beginning with, Learn How to Talk With Your Hands. It will be held on Tues., April 12 at 8:00 p.m. in Mojave's kitchen. Village resident Sharon Saks will discuss the myths regarding the deaf, the history of American sign language, and how you can communicate with your hands.

On Tues., April 19 and Wed., April 20 at 8:00 p.m., a workshop has been designed to prepare interested residents for Casino Night. Learn the rules and how to bet and deal blackjack, poker, roulette, and craps. The workshop will be held in the Student Union Meeting Rooms A & Student Union Rooms A & B.

R.A. 83-84

Resident Assistant selection for the 1983-84 year is underway. The following is the timetable for the interview process:

April 11-12: Applicants sign-up for Round I & Round II interviews

April 14-24: Round I & Round II interviews

April 28: Round I & II decisions are made

April 29: Sign-ups for final round
May 2-6: Each finalist will need to arrange an evening in the Village with an R.A.

May 13: Final R.A. selection is complete

The Resident Assistant position is an exciting challenge and a tremendous growing and learning experience. The Housing Office wishes all the applicants the best of luck.

Munchies

Do you get the munchies on your way to class in the evenings? Well, the Village Council is planning to help you starving students out. The Village Council will be selling food and drink in front of the Library on Tuesday and Wednesday nights from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m.

Massage Nite April 19 - 20

On April 19 and 20, residents of Joshua will warm up their hands for a Massage Night from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. Feel the best hands in town massage your weary body! Tickets are $2.00 at the door. Beverages will be served.

Jobs With Peace Week Rally Set

"There is an alternative to massive arms build-up, to the release of new destabilizing nuclear weapons, to the expense of propping up corrupt military dictatorships in other countries, and we intend to demonstrate that these alternatives are also a large part of the solution to the country's economic problems," says Allan Blum, Corona businessman and chair of the Inland Empire Jobs with Peace Committee.

The Committee is sponsoring a march from Wheelock Field at Riverside City College to Riverside City Hall on April 16. The march will cap local activities for Jobs with Peace Week, April 10-16. The march will be followed by a rally at City Hall. The march from Wheelock Field will begin at 11:00 a.m., with the City Hall rally starting at noon.

"The current administration is conducting a campaign of fear, attempting to terrify the American people into acquiescing to its demands. What the folks in the White House fail to tell us is the immense price the people in this country will pay in unemployment, high interest rates, cuts in social services, and higher taxes," says Blum.

Activities planned for the rally at Riverside City Hall at noon on April 16th include folk and gospel music, street theatre, games, a soup kitchen, both free distribution and sales of literature by various organizations, and other educational activities designed to supplement the speakers program.

Interns

The Aetna Casualty and Surety Company is sponsoring a 1983 Summer Intern Program. The position will be located in San Bernardino, and will involve training in Commercial Lines Underwriting with the prospect of full-time employment upon graduation.

The intern selected will work five days per week at a pay rate of $6.30/hr. Candidates for the program must meet the following qualifications:

1. Be majoring in Insurance, Business Administration or Liberal Arts

2. Have an overall grade point average of 3.0 or better

3. Graduate at the end of 1983 or by mid-year 1984

The Placement Center has made arrangements for Aetna to interview on our campus for this position. Interviews will be held on Thursday, April 21st. Qualified students may sign up for an interview appointment and receive additional information in the Career Planning and Placement Center (SS-116).

Do we go to NCAA?

by Anthony Manning

In the 17-year history of Cal State, San Bernardino, the college has never fielded an intercollegiate sports team. This was partly due to the size of the college during those years and partly due to the philosophy of President Emeritus John M. Pfau. After becoming President last September, President Anthony Evans has been investigating the possibility of introducing intercollegiate to CSCSB.

Last quarter, an Intercollegiate Sports Task Force was assembled to look into that possibility more thoroughly. Chairing the Task Force is Dr. Ward McAfee, Dean of the School of Social Sciences. According to McAfee, "We were told to do our homework on how effective such a program would be and then present our decision to President Evans."

Intercollegiate at Cal State is by no means an inexpensive proposition. It has been estimated by the Finance subcommittee that to begin an intercollegiate program would require $150,000 to $200,000 a year for a viable program. The largest cost would be for supplies and travel, which would amount to $35,000. Insurance would be an annual cost of $4,000 to $5,000, and the fees required to join the NCAA Division III would be $2,000. The other expenses involved would include salaries for coaches, additional staff, and the construction of a training room for the athletes.

How much of these estimated expenses will be paid by students? According to McAfee, the cost of the training room would be a one-time cost borne by the institution. Part of the remaining outlays, approximately half, would have to be paid by students. This would mean an increase in Instructionally Related Programs (IRP) fees. The Finance subcommittee has not determined an actual cost, but a working estimate is about a $10 per year increase.

The Task Force has decided that if intercollegiate are best for Cal State, then the college should join Division III of the NCAA. Division III institutions place a high priority on the overall quality of the educational experience. In so doing, they seek to strengthen the integration of objectives and programs in athletics with academic and developmental objectives, and to assure the integration of athletes with other students. To that end, the college would place special importance on the impact of athletics on the participants rather than on the spectators, and greater emphasis on the students, alumni, and local community than on the general public and its entertainment needs.

The local Division III conference is the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC). If Cal State San Bernardino was to join the SCIAC, it would be playing teams from the University of Redlands, Pomona-Pitzer College, Claremont-Mudd Colleges, LaVerne University, Occidental College, Whittier College, and Cal-Tech Pasadena. These schools all field teams which are strictly amateur. "There is rarely any scandal or corruption in Division III. You would never see the things here that you would see at, say, USC," McAfee commented.

Next week: What sports does Cal State San Bernardino hope to field for the SCIAC and how many coaches will be needed?

Psi Chi Bowlathon

by Steve Coffey
Vice-President, Psi Chi

Psi Chi is pleased to announce that the Winter Quarter Bowlathon was a striking success. The faculty members who bowled in the event gave their all and left nothing to spare. Here is how they did: Dr. Dave Lutz, 3-game average 148; Cornel "Cannonball" Ormsby, 137; Dr. Fred "Big Strike" Newton, 130; Dr. Bob Cramer, 117; Dr. Chuck Hoffman, 116; Michael Weiss, 110; Dr. Gloria "Lefty Hooker" Cowan, 104.

What made this event a real success, however, was the students who pledged their pennies. As a result of their fantastic support, Psi Chi has been able to collect almost $400 thus far and the projected collection is over $500. The details as to how the scholarship fund will be distributed will be announced sometime this quarter.

The support and outcome of this bowlathon was very impressive. All of those who contributed time or money deserve a warm pat on the back and heartfelt "thank you."

Upcoming speakers for the month of April are Dr. Lynda Warren, who will discuss Time Management on Thurs., April 14; Research students who will be attending the Western Psychological Association Convention will give their presentation on Thurs., April 21; and Ellie Smith, R.N., will speak on the advantages of hospices for treating terminally ill patients. All meetings will be held at noon in PS 122. All interested students and faculty may attend.

Popcorn Previews

by Bob Cramer

As most everyone knows the Oscars were awarded this past Monday evening. Because this column was submitted to Editor Manning last Friday I cannot tell you who won, but by now you already know. I would, however, like to predict the winners. I know this is quite a gamble on my part, but I had my prerogatives all set for publication a week before Oscar night, and feel obligated to go "on the record" with my choices. So here we go.

In the Best Actor category, I have this feeling Ben Kingsley won for his portrayal of Gandhi. This is fun! I am predicting the past before it has taken place; psychologists do this frequently. Hoffman was superb in Tootsie and Paul Newman is certainly a sentimental favorite (The Verdict), but I think they are disappointed at this moment.

No question about it, Meryl Streep earned her second Oscar for her lead role in the film Sophie's Choice. Although the other actresses nominated in the Best Actress category are very upset, Jessica Lange is ecstatic because she won an Oscar for her supporting role in Tootsie. She has come a long way since King Kong, and if it were not for Streep she may have won Best Actress for her role in Francis. Sorry Kim Stanley, bad karma. You were great as Lange's pushy mother in Francis, but the stars were not lined up just right on Monday past.

It was an uphill battle for Louis Gossett Jr., but I am sure he is still partying for having captured the Best Supporting Actor award. Gossett's portrayal of the ultra-tough drill instructor often carried the film (I learned some excellent new cuss words too).

Howard Rollins Jr., was robbed last year and I am happy to say that it did not happen again. The average age of the voting academy members is over 50 and they have been known to award Oscars to veteran performers that have "paid their dues" (e.g., John Wayne for True Grit). As a result, I know James Mason and Robert Preston had their suits pressed, but in the end biorhythms cannot be denied, sorry fellas.

I was happy to see Gandhi recognized as the Best Film of 1982. It was quite an achievement, taking over 20 years to accomplish. Tootsie was my second choice but alas comedies almost never win the top prize. I know you special effects freaks had your hearts set on E.T., but if you had done your archival homework you would have discovered that fantasy films (Wizard of Oz included) do not win Oscars.

Richard Attenborough, Gandhi's director, certainly looked splendid picking up his Oscar for Best Director. Once again the academy followed the lead of the Director's Guild and awarded the Oscar to the guild's previously announced choice. When picking the Oscars it pays to be a social historian.

I wish I had had the opportunity to give my predictions before the awards were presented but this is more adventuresome. If by chance I get these all right I expect to be accused of cheating. I can assure you I did not cheat; the answer is very simple: I am psychic.

Ethnic and Cultural Activities Account

by Lee Ann Overstreet

The Associated Students has created a Ethnic Cultural Events account. The purpose of this account is to promote and provide activities of ethnic diversity on the CSCSB campus. Essentially, ethnic refers to language, nationality, and/or race.

The following criteria must be met before any consideration can be given to appropriate funds from the Ethnic Cultural Events account. The maximum amount that any one group or person could be allocated cannot exceed $500 per quarter. This fund should be considered as a separate source of revenue support.

Ethnic activities will be open to the entire campus community and must not exclude any groups from attending or participating. The sponsor of the activity must submit to the Activities Office, at the same time as the request, a written budget for the proposed activity with a listing of all funding resources that are being used, at least two weeks in advance of the proposed date for the activity. Within two weeks after the event, the sponsor must show proof of expenses paid. The intention is that any funds not expended would return to the ECE account.

Sunset Cliffs

by Jeff Fitchett

Often I hear the call in the breeze,
Beckoning the soul to a place all my own.
I journey to the cliffs high above the sea,
To witness the end of another perfect day.

Golden waves glimmer under rustic skies,
Crashing against defiant pillars of stone.
The salty mist lies gently upon my face,
Stimulating the sense so often forgotten.

The ocean wind caresses my body,
Softly floating through golden strands of hair.
Majestic clouds of lavender embrace the fading sunlight,
And darkness falls upon the edge of the sky.

I stand by myself in a haven of peace,
Protected from the suffering of a world gone astray.
Knowing my destiny, I will follow the sun,
Ready to confront the winds of another day.
